Dear Reader,

Welcome to the 11th Edition of the South Australian FarmGuide.

FarmGuide is an annual publication produced specifically to meet the needs of the farming community and is delivered by Australia Post to farmers and businesses related to farming each year.

Primary Producers SA and its five commodity members is pleased to support the South Australian FarmGuide for the information it provides to South Australian Producers.

FarmGuide is made up of three specific sections:-

Information Pages full of important reference material tailored specifically to meet the needs of farmers. Government departments use the guide as a way of disseminating information of the farming community. There are various articles on Farm Safety, Land and Water, Livestock, Health & Wellbeing and many more important issues.

Stud Breeders Guide is a comprehensive listing of breeders throughout South Australia. Breed associations provide comprehensive listings of their members from Alpacas, Cattle, Sheep to Working Dogs.

Classified Directory lists all businesses who want to do business with farmers. Whether you want a new Motorbike, Fencing materials, a new Pump or even a new car FarmGuide has it all.

FarmGuide has now launched its new online portal to make it even easier to find a range of businesses throughout Australia who want to sell their products or services to farmers. You can view the guide online or use the search facility to find a relevant business. Better still if you know who you are looking for just type in their name on the home page.

Please enjoy this issue of FarmGuide and ensure that you support the businesses who want to deal with you, the farmer.

Primary Producers SA

Primary Producers SA (PPSA) is a coalition of peak bodies representing primary producers in South Australia. Its vision is for a strong, viable primary production sector in South Australia, which is valued by government and the community.

The purpose of PPSA is:

- To vigorously represent the interests and concerns of primary producers to government and the community;
- To present one voice to government and the wider community on cross-commodity issues affecting primary producers in South Australia;
- To promote the importance of primary production in South Australia and ensure that the contributions and achievements of primary producers are acknowledged and appreciated; and
- To work with and assist stakeholders and suppliers to primary production where such assistance will ultimately benefit primary producers.

Examples of the cross-commodity issues PPSA gets involved with include:

- taxation, government levies and charges
- planning and land security
- rural development, communities and social issues
- transport and logistics
- natural resource management and water policy
- cost and availability of power
- biosecurity and emergency management
- R,D&E, education and training and
- workforce issues (industrial relations, work health and safety, WorkCover issues).

Each of PPSA's members (Grain Producers SA, Livestock SA, the Horticulture Coalition of SA, the Wine Grape Council of SA, and the SA Dairyfarmers Association) is represented by a Councillor on the PPSA Council. The PPSA Council meets roughly four times per year.

A good example of PPSA's influence and work is reflected in the 90-Day Change @ SA Improving Road Transport for the Agriculture Industry Project. This is a partnership between PPSA, PIRSA and the Department of Planning, Transport and Infrastructure. PPSA realised that a partnership approach was required if there was to be a road transport system that met the existing and the future needs of agriculture. Because of this project there has now been an extension of existing routes for different trailer combinations, first and last mile access issues resolved, and more recently allowances made for moving machinery wider than four metres as well as night movement of farm machinery on roads. It is estimated that these changes are worth at least $50 million.

GPSA – advocates for grain growers

Grain Producers SA was established in March 2012 as the advocate for South Australian growers on grains issues beyond the farm gate.

GPSA's goal is to improve the profitability and sustainability of SA grain producers. GPSA is funded by a levy on grain production. This money from growers is used to:

- Advocate on their behalf on issues affecting farm profitability to government, the community and other industry groups and businesses.
- Commission projects on behalf of growers that will help improve production, profits and sustainability.

GPSA has a board of eight directors who are grain growers from across the state, as well as a small team of staff who work for growers, under the board's direction.

GPSA works with all levels of government – local, state and federal – on issues impacting the grain industry. GPSA is in regular contact with marketers, exporters, storage and handlers, researchers and farm input suppliers on behalf of growers.

Membership is free for SA producers and growers can have as much or as little involvement with GPSA as they like. At a minimum, GPSA asks that producers become members so it can keep growers informed on issues that may affect their business and advise how levy money is being spent.

There is also plenty of opportunity to contribute to policy direction or have input on issues through GPSA's regular grower consultation meetings.

Becoming a member is easy ... just fill out the online membership form, available on the website, or contact the office for a printed copy.

Some of the key issues on GPSA's radar are those that impact profitability of grain producers, including:

- Investment in transport infrastructure.
- Freight routes.
- Increased grain industry competition.
- Third-party access to ports for grain exports.
- Investment in research, development and extension.
- Access to genetically modified crops.
- Reducing red and green tape and impacts on growers.
- Priority recognition for grain production, for issues such as spray drift and wind farm and mining developments.

What tools can help you improve your operation?

Australian farmers are some of the hardest working people in the country. You work long hours, making it a challenge to keep up to date with the latest technologies available. There are so many products on the market that could help you in your daily lives, but which product is the right one?

Always stay connected

Most people today use their mobile phones as a primary means of communications, especially those of us with GPS equipped smartphones. People working the land are familiar with the minimal or lack of mobile phone coverage in rural areas. While mobile phone companies will boast that their network is the largest in Australia and covers up to 95% of Australians, this only equates to a geographical coverage area of around 16% of the Australian land mass. This is because the majority of Australians live in coastal areas. Fortunately there are tools to stay connected.

Mobile phone & cellular data range extenders

Mobile phone range extender kits enable you to connect your mobile phone to an external antenna in your vehicle. These kits will improve your phone reception as well as voice and data connectivity in areas with limited mobile coverage and signal. There are however some areas where there is absolutely no signal and other methods of maintaining communications is required such as a satellite phone or satellite messenger device.

Mounting your devices

If you are using your phone or tablet in your vehicle you have probably asked the question of "How do I mount these devices safely, effectively and legally?" The answer is easy! RAM mounts. RAM mounts are heavy duty mounting systems designed to mount a variety of devices in a wide range of vehicles. RAM mounts are the very systems utilised by the US and Australian Defence Forces for mounting a wide range of equipment including laptops, communications and navigation equipment. If a RAM mount can't hold it, nothing will.

UHF communications

UHF radios have been an essential tool for farmers for decades. While most farmers are aware of 80 channel radios, they may not be aware that the government has introduced legislation which will prohibit the use of 40 channel radios after 2017. This is due to the fact that 40 channel radios cause interference in the newer 80 channel UHF CB radios. Upgrading your radio communications does not need to be expensive as long as you receive professional advice.

GPS & Tracking

If you are looking for an outback GPS navigation, mapping or tracking solution then you may want to consider a device tailored for these purposes. This may be a Garmin GPS, Spot or Inreach tracker.

Originally Peruvian, alpaca have been farmed for 7,000 years. Today, alpaca and alpaca products enjoy renewed favour around the world.

Alpaca are a robust, easygoing and water-wise camelid species, with soft, roo-like feet and efficient food conversion habits. Clever and fox-resistant, they are successfully used by graziers to protect sheep and lambs.

The fleece is fine, soft, and high performance, and has a luxurious feel beloved in fashion. Chefs and gourmets revere alpaca meat for its healthy low fat content, and unique, subtle flavour.

Farmers in Australia have quickly taken an international lead, despite having started just 25 years ago. Today Australia tends some 170,000 registered animals, possibly the largest herd outside Peru. Australia has leveraged its Merino industry knowledge to add new value to an ancient livestock, and our elite bloodlines are now keenly sought and commonly exported.

The Australian Alpaca Association (AAA) is Australia's peak professional body, supporting and representing breeders and nurturing industry development. Members receive access to support, knowledge and resources to help grow their businesses.

For more information about alpaca and AAA membership, visit alpaca.asn.au
